BRAVE FIRE IN MILLED BATTLE WITH TRAMPS A Train Grow Attacked by Four Hoboss in Indiana.

LOOKS BAD FOR THE FIRE CHIEF.

Entimations That He Exposed the Men Under His Control to Unnecessary Danger-Probability That the Charges Will be Officially Investigated.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 6.—Fire yesterday completely gutted Keenan & Jahn's fur-niture store, at 213, 215 and 217 Woodward avenue, entailing a loss of $20,000 on stock and $25,000 on the building. The tire started in the boiler room and shot up the freight elevator shaft, obtaining such headway that the firemen were upable to save any portion of the building or

The dead, all of whose bodies have been recovered from the ruins, are: Michael H Donaghue, heutenaut of chemical engine company; J. R. Dely, pipeman, John W. Pagel, pipeman; Julius Cummings, pipe man; Martin Ball, pipeman, Frederick Bussey, electrical worker and substitute

In addition to the above ten firemen were injured, some of them very severely. After the interior of the building had been partially burned out it became apparent that the front and rear walls were in danger of falling, but Fire Chief Elliott permitted his men to advance with the hose as closely as possible, both from front and rear. Suddenly the front wall sagged forward, and the great mass of hot brick, timber and iron crashed to the sidewalk with a tremendous roar. Almost at the same instant the rear wall crumbled and fell into the alley in the rear. Above the tumult of the panic stricken crowd rose the shricks of the wounded and imprisoned firemen. Sixteen in all were in the path of the tumbling walls, but ten escaped alive, after a few seconds of trilling experiences

When the first crack of the falling floors was heard the men started to run, but the walls came down on them so swiftly that all were buried under tons of brick and mortar. The walls did not fall outside of the middle of the sidewalk, and the last brick had scarcely touched the walk before the work of rescue began.

The first body recovered was that of Lieutenant Donahue, then the bodies of Pagel, Dely, Cummings and Belt were taken out in specession Michael Gray was badly injured, as was also Stevens The building was a five story brick, with 12-inch filled walls, and it is said that it had been condemued as being unsafe. The Insurance on the building foots up $10.00. and on the stock about $50,000.

Chief Elliett is being roundly scored for risking the lives of his men, when, as it is claimed, there was no call for such a hazard. He says that he had no reason to ! sheve the walls were unsafe, and that the men were only domerness regular duties as firemer. The walls of the building, as was well known, were considered especially then, so much so that the city building map ofor- Higher fused to allow the coners of a new building now being creeted on adjuning property to use the partition wall. FINANCE AND TRADE.

The Return to Natural Conditions Comes Slowly.

From All Sections Come Reports of Slightly Increased Production and Consumption-The Demand for Money Has Increased East and West.

New York, Oct. 6 .- Bradstreet's review of trade says: While no radical change has appeared this week there are features of the situation pointing to continued progress in the direction of improvement. This is true of the country at large. Thus, in eastern and middle states, while the larger cities do not report noteworthy changes, Providence announces that all industrial lines, notably manufacturing jewelers have received liberal orders, with the exception of manufacturers of machinery Baltimore, too, reports larger sales in a few directions. In the west corresponding reports come from Omaha, where a better feeling is reported throughout the tributary region. Duluth also finds business improved, and St. Louis and Kansas City report stimulation in wholesale as well as retail lines. From the south the most favorable report comes from Jackson ville, wherewholesale trade is good and retail trade improving. Merchandise is moving satisfactorily from Savannah, and from Charleston and Chattanooga The pre-viously reported large volume of business of Chicago jobbers is maintained. At a number of points east and west demand for money has increased, and changes in the character of merchantile collections. as a rule, are in the direction of improve-

The price movement has improved little. Wheat, corn and oats have advanced from previous lowest levels. Some varieties of lumber, naval stores, tin plate and a few other staples have remained steady in price, but refined sugar is lower for reasons which may or may not be similar to those governing prices in other lines. Conce-sions in prices have also been made for pig iron, steel billets, lumber, lard, coffee, cotton, print croths and live hogs.

Dun's review says: With the chief money crops of the west and south sinking in value, it is not strange that purchases of manufactured products are smaller than was expected. Wheat has touched the lowest point ever known for options, and cotton the lowest ever known in any form with the present classification, and the accumulation of stocks in both products is discouraging to purchasers for an advance. Producers are compelled to sell at prices below the or-duary cost of rai-ing crops, and in some western states there is also a lamentable failure of the corn crop. Under the circumstances it would be very strange if the demand for manufactured products should be quite as large as in other years.

The condition of the industries, however, is in some respects more satisfactory. Evidently there is a larger demand for iron products than there was a month ago, though the increase in output has been somewhat greater than the increase in the demand, so that prices steadily tend downward.

The failures for the past week have been 219 in the United States, against 320 for the same week last year, and 33 in Canada, against 45 last year.

Decided Against the Trust.

HOLLIDAY-BURG, Pa., Oct. 6 .- The wall paper trust, known as the National Wall Paper company, figured in the Blair county courts as the prosecutor of Lyon & Co, the largest wall paper and stationery dealers in Altoona, for fraudulent insolveney. The pro-ecuting company alleged that the defendants placed an order for $25,000 in New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburg, and after receiving the merchandise were sold out by the sheriff on executions in favor of their relatives. The jury acquitted the defendants and the trust concern was mulcied in the costs.

Socialism in Germany.

LONDON, Oct. 6 -The Times Berlin cor respondent says that the center of the electoral struggle in Norway, has shifted to Christiana, where the election of dele gates is fixed for next Thursday Last week's election in Bergen shows that the Radical leaders, though they avoid au open alliance, have a tacit agreement with the Socialists. As a result of this agreement three Radicals and a Socialist named Brunchorst were returned for the four Bergen seats. Is He After a Senatorship?

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.-Reports are current that the erstwhile prominent Democrat. Judge Lyman Trumbull, in appearing as a Populist campaign speaker, is carrying out the part of a deep laid scheme. It is asserted that having made himself solid with the Populists he hopes to be the choice for United States senator of such representtives of that party as may succeed in being elected to the Illinois legilature. It is not impossible that the Populists may hold the balance of power in the jointa-sembly, and it is claimed that Judge Trumbull sees a chance to have himself forced upon the Democrats as a compromise, and Franklin MacVeagh dropped as an impossibility.

NEW YORK ROOTERS OUT IN FORCE.

A Policeman Rides with Each Bus Load of the Visitors to Keep Them in Order-The Game Won and Lost in tha Ninth inning.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6.-The second game of the Temple cup series, played here yesterday, was another exhibition of great ball playing. Local "rooters," however, do not fully appreciate it, because the Orioles lost. Both teams were evenly matched in skill and play, but an element of luck was in favor of the New Yorkers. The game was nip and tuck up to the ninth inning. In this inning an error by the peerless Jennings, which should have been an easy double, retiring the side, eventually gave the Giants four runs.

In early practice, when the "Kids" were on the field to chase the leather, Burks hit one of them in the face with a ball. It looked deliberate, and a crowd from the bleachers swarmed over into the field after him. The police drove the field back and Burke explained that the offense was unintentional. The New York play-ers and "rooters" came to the grounds at 2:30 o'clock with one policemen in each

The game began at 3:30 o'clock, and the crowd of 11,000 people kept unsually quiet and undemonstrative during the game, excepting when brilliant plays were made by either side Emslie took the first turn at judging balls and strikes and Hurston base decisions. Meekin pitched for New York and Gleason for Baltimore. The New Yorkers were first at the bat, and they were out in one, two, three order. Eddie Burke was first to the the bat, and was greeted with a storm of cheers and horn toots from Gotham's "rooters." Ha hit the first ball pitched by Gleason into Keeler's hands. In the second inning Gleason made a great stop and assist on a hard liner from Ward's bat, and in the same inning Doyle dropped an easy foul fly from Jennings' bat, but was saved an error mark by Jennings sacrificing on the next bull pitched. During this inning the New York players crowded around Emslie and kicked, princapally to worry bim. In the fourth inning Meekin made a wonderful stop of a hard hit ball from Kelley's bat, and in the next inning Burke's catch of a long fly from Brouthers' but was the feature. In the sixth inning Kelley delighted his admirers by making what seemed an impossible play. In the seventh inning Ward and Meekin.

attempted tricks accredited to McGraw. The game was won and lost in the ninth inning. Fuller sent an easy one to short. but it hit a stone and bounded over Jennings' head. Farrell got in another scratch bit Meekin struck out. Burke sent an easy one to Jennings, for a double play, but Jennings, in over anxiety, fumbled the ball. Thernan cleared the bases with a three base bit, and came hour Davis' out, and Doyle's out retired the side. In the Baltimore's half of the inning it was quite dark, and Meekin relied upon speed. Since the discovery of Dr. Kenne'ly's Favorite Remedy, all this has been changed-the action af Favorite Remedy upon the system leaves no trace of poison in the blood, the seeds of disease are expelled and lost health restored.

A notable case of efficacy of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is that of the Rev. I. W. Hill of this town. Some years ago he was suffering with a cancer of long standing, on his lip, and finally concluded to have it removed. In speaking of his case, Pas or Hill said: "About three weeks previous to having the operation performed, i purchased Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Bemedy and continued taking it for some time after the cancer was removed. Ten long years have passed since then, and no trace of the ugly thing has returned. I speak with knowledge in the highest terms of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy as being able to cure the troubles for which it is prepared."

One of our local physicians said, in explaining the demand for Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy: "It acts as a nerve and blood food, and to my knowledge it has made many permanent cures of Nervous Debility, Sleeplessness, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism and of of the sickness peculiar to women where other treatments have failed. For headaches, constipuation and the run-down condition, they often suffer with, there is nothing else so good."

THE SILVER DOLLAR.

UNCLE SAM'S FIRST COINAGE OF THE PIECE WAS 100 YEARS AGO.

Before That Time, However, the Colonics and the States Had Made Metal Money con Their Own Hook"-Dilatoriness of Congress In Taking the Matter Up.

It will be a hundled years on Oct. 15 since coined dollars were first issued from the federal munt under our Uncle Samuel's own supervision.

These were not the first coins made or America's use, however. Away back in 1612 the Virginia company issued brass coms from the Somers islands, now called Dermudas. Of the legal value attaching to these coins little is stated. The material was brass, with CONTINENTAL SILVER DOLLAR. the legend, "Somer Island," and "a hogge on one side, in memory of the abundance of hogges which were found on their landing." On the reverse was a ship under sail, from which a gun was being fired. In 1645 the assembly of Virginia, whose inhabitants had theretofore been obliged to depend wholly upon tobacco as a circulating medium, "having maturely weighed and considered how advantageous a quoine current would be to this collony," decided to issue copper coins of varying values from twopence to ninepence, but for some reason the coins never appeared. Seven years later, in 1652, the colony of Massachusetts did actually issue a coinage, the "mint howse," at which the pieces were made, being established at Boston by an order of the general court promulgated on May 27 of that year. The details of the regulations for this coinage were very quaint, it being provided that the "peeces" should be of "XII d, VI d and III d," which should "be of forme flatt and stamped on one side with N. E."-for New England-and on the other with the proper notation showing the value of the com.

They were to be like new sterling English money in fineness, each shilling piece "to weigh threepenny, troy weight, and lesser peeces proportionably." For some reason these coins were not at all satisfactory, and on Oct. 19 of the same year provision was made for the famous "Pine Tree coinage," each piece of which was to bear "a double ring on each side, with the inscription, 'Massachusetts,' and a tree in the center on one side and New England and the date of the year on the other side." Ten years later a twopenuy piece was added the leading horsemen and train- to the series, which lasted for 34 years, though none of the coins bore any date save 1562 and 1662, only two sets of dies appearing to have been made.

In 1662 Maryland provided for "the getting up of a mint within the province," but the mint never materialized, and the same is true as to the colonial mint of New Hampshire, which was authorized in 1766. During much of this time coinage for the colonies was issued in the old country. One series of coins so put forth was made by a man named William Wood, who secured a royal patent for coining small money "for the plantations" out of the combinations of metals known as "pinchbeek." One old time chronicler records indignantly that Wood had "the conscience to make 13 shillings out of a pound of brass." This money was so little liked by the colonists that it had to be withdrawn.

Subsequent to the Declaration of Independence, and especially during the nine years from 1778 to 1787 inclusive, coins were issued by direction both of the continental congress and several of the individual states, including Vermont, Connecticut, New Jersey and Massachusetts. In 1782 a plan for a national coinage was formulated and submitted to congress by Robert Morris, the head of the finance department, though the authorship of this plan is claimed by his relative, Gouverneur Morris. The establishment of a mint was approved by congress during the following year, but nothing further was done in the matter till 1785, when the scheme for a national comage presented by Thomas Jefferson was adopted. Eagles and half eagles of gold, dollars, half dollars, double dimes and dimes of silver and cents and half cents of copper were the pieces authorized. An ordinance for the establishment of a mint was adopted by congress in 1786, but it was not till the next year that anything more was done, when the board of treasury, on the authority of con-

"RORSEHEAD" COIN OF NEW JERSEY. gress, made a contract with Mr. James Jarvis for 300 tons of federal copper coin. As the federal mint was not yet built, these coins were struck at the Connecticut mint at New Haven and the Vermont mint at Rupert. They were singular looking pieces. One side of each bore 13 circles linked together, inclosing a circle in the middle of the coin, while it in turn contained the words, "United States" and "We Are One." The other side bore a sundial,

WILSON TALKS. MR.

Y Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal and so divert his course that he may succeed in line. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has a broader well as for as the wall importer great. a bigger man in the world. I have studied now to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which or the succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which or the succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess,

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find note until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book

I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which mation with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work. series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end-and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

In 1702 a code of laws for the establishment and regulation of the mint was adopted, and under this code, with slight changes, the coinage of the United States was struck for 42 years. Eagles, half eagles and quarter eagles of gold, dollars, half dollars, quarter dollars, dimes and half dimes of silver and cents and half cents of copper were the coins minted. It was also enacted that the dollar should be considered the unit of federal money, and all accounts were ordered to be kept in accordance with the decimal system on which the coinage was based. In conformity with the provisions of the mint laws, the Bank of Maryland, on July 18, 1794, deposited at the mint $80,715 worth of French coinage to be recoined into federal money, and on Oct. 15 of the same year the first lot of dollars was finished and delivered. There were 1,758 coins in the lot. The ratio established between gold and silver by the early mint regulations, under which these coins were struck, was 15 to 1. The silver dollar was of 892.4 thousandths fineness and weighed 416 grains. It will be observed that it took the federal government a long time to get down to the actual coinage of money. The question was one that excited merely a languid interest in congress, and it was urged against the project that the maintenance of a mint would be a serious drain upon the resources of the federal treasury. Had it not occurred that those unusually persistent political enemies, Hamilton and Jefferson, joined forces in favor of the mint it is likely that its establishment would have been even longer delayed. The first goldpieces were struck in 1795, and gold was coined from that time on continuously for years. For some reason, however, the silver dollar failed to circulate freely, and in 1804 their coinage was suspended until 1830, when 1,000 were struck. No more were coined after that till 1839, when 300 were issued. After that silver dollars were coined every year, but it was not until 1869 that the number minted any one year exceeded 400,000, and it was not until 1871 that more than 1,000,000 were turned out in 12 months.

In 1817 gold quite disappeared from circulation, and no gold dollars whatever were struck till 1849, after the discovery of the precious metal in California. The money question was found to be quite as troublesome during the early years of the republic's life as it is now or ever has been. It was frequently up for discussion in congress, and the discussions were quite as bitter and often along lines very similar to those of the present day. It would be manifestly out of place to enter into details concerning them in such an article as this. The mint at Philadelphia, where the first federal money mill was established, has always been the main coinage place of the government as to number of pieces, though not as to value thereof. The gold coinage has been done principally at San Francisco since the opening of the mint there, which followed the discovery of gold. The Philadelphia mint is an extremely interesting institution, especially to the numismatist, for there is to be seen the largest collection of coins in the United States, including specimens of the continental dollars coined by the colonies before the establishments of the federal munt and figured here; of the "horsehead" coins of New Jersey, also here illustrated, and of almost every series of coins ever struck in this country, either by the federal government, the colonies and states, or by private individuals. To the general public it is likely that the actual making of the coins is more interesting than are the old pieces. The machinery and methods employed in Uncle Sam's mint are of the latest and most approved pattern, and although the pressure applied in the powerful stamps, presses and dies every time a piece is turned out is something enormous the machinery is so skillfully adapted to its work, and all its parts are so delicately adjusted that the operatiens seem to go on without much display of power. An orderly, who has been employed about the mint for many years, explained the process in a nutshell one day to a lady visitor, and the explanation was so simple and so characteristre that she printed it. Perhaps its repetition here may be excused on the same grounds:

"Making money," said the officer, "is just like making cake. You mix the dough. We mix the metal. You roll out the dough into shape. We roll out the metal into bars. You cut the dough into shape. We cut the metal into coins. Then we stamp them. The metal that is left over is melted up and used again, just as the cook gathers up the left overs, rolls them again and cuts more cakes."

Could anything be simpler? M. I. DEXTER.

The carpenter also holds the board he is cutting with his great toe, and the wood turner uses his tools as well with his toos as his hands.

THE PRESIDENT COMING TO MID-DLETOWN.

man, English, Irish, Scandinavian and American Doctors of New York city will be at the Russell House, Middletown, on Wednesday, October 17th, one day only. The sick and afflicted may consult them without charge during their stay.

If you are incurable they will tell you; therefore invalids must not take offence if they are rejected, as no case will be accepted unless there is a moral certainty of a cure being effected. These Doctors are graduates of the best universities of Europe and America; they are of the highest standing in the medical profession and have had unlimited experience in the treatment of all Chronic Diseases and Deformities. As the latest methods, instruments and appliances of the various schools of both the Old and the New World are familiar to and at the command of this staff of doctors, it is reasonable to believe that in ninety cases out of every hundred a cure can be effected, even when the patients have been given up as incurable by doctors who have had less experience. Do not be discouraged because your doctor can-not give you relief, or even if he tells you that you cannot get well, for it Lighters not what your disease may be, you can consult the doctors free, and, if curable, they will treat you; if incurable, they will give you such dvice as will tend to prolong life and afford you the greatest relief.

The doctor will visit Middletown one day each month Office hours from 10 s. m. to 6 p. m.

TOWN OF MINISINE.

The Democrats of the town of Minisink will meet at Chardavoyne's Hall, in the village of Westtown, Tuesday afternoon, Oct 8th, at 2 o'clock, to choose delegates to the Congressional. County and Assembly District Conventions.

By order of Town Committee

The Republicans of the Second District of Ulater county have renominated James Lounsberry, of Kerhonkson, for Member of Assembly.

The Republican majority in the Constitutional Convention spent the $390,000 appropriated for the convention's expenses and ran the State in debt for $30,000 besides.

The Republican convention in the Twenty-second Congressional District-St Lawrence, Saratoga, Fulton and Hamilton counties, has balloted 292 times without being able to name a candidate for Representative in Congress. Gen. Newton M. Curtis, of St. Lawrence, is a candidate for renomination and has the fifteen votes of his c unty. The other counties, which have fifteen votes in the convention, are anxious to defeat Curtis, who is said to have promised in 1892 that he would not again be a candidate. The feeting is very bitter. The St. Lawrence men say that they will stand by Curtis till the last day for filing nominations and then, if necessary, will nominate him by petition and elect him by St. Lawrence's big Republican majority, even if Saratoga and Fulton and Hamilton counties run a caudidate of their own.

Secretary of State Palmer, ex-Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, at a public reception in Albany, on August 10, 1891, paid this frank and generous tribute to Senator | BUFCHER-In Newark, N. J., Oct. 2d, '94. of Hill.

"The man who is unwilling to accord to a political opponent full credit for any service he may render the veteran lacks appreciation, and is without gratitude and is not a good American citizen. I here desire to acknowledge publicly my obligation to Governor Hill for the many generous favors extended to the veterans at my solicitation-both as a representative of the board of trustees of the New York State Soldiers' Home and in my representative capacity as a Grand Army man. In all my experience I have never found a man in the executive chair who was more ready to help the veteran than David B. Hill."

Justice, fairness and common decency to the other candidates and to the Democratic party which had honored hin far beyond his deserts, required that Judge Gaynor, instead of coquetting with the nomination for Justice of the Court of Appeals for over a week, should have announced his decision at the earliest possible moment after the convention adjourned. Not a reason for declining the nomination is given in his bombastic and egotistical letter published this morning, that did not exist on the day after the convention. Had Judge Gaynor announced his declination then he would probably have couched it in brief and manly words. Certainly he would not then have written such a letter as that of yesterday, which reeks with odious egotism and which, as the New York Times well says, is animated by "a sort of flatulent exaltation that appears to proceed from an attempt to think like a Hebrew prophet while writing like a Populist senator."

Senator Hill is not at all dismayed by Judge Gaynor's refusal to run for Judge of the Court of Appeals. He recalls a similar experience in 1885. when Roswell P. Flower declined to run for Lieutenant Governor, and Jones, who paid the freight, was taken up and the Democratic ticket went through with a rush. There will be no difficulty in finding a stronger man than Gaynor to take his place on the ticket.

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

The Vocal Society Elects Officers for the Ensuing Year-A Novel sort of Census.

From a special correspondent, -The annual election of officers of the Goshen Vocal Society was held at the regular rehearsal, last evening. Last year's officers were all reelected, with the exception of Miss Clara Reevs, who was appointed sec retary in place of John Scott, resigned. The annual reports of the musical director, treasurer and secretary were not forthcoming but are promised for next week.

-In Thursday's Tribune was published an article entitled, "A census of ghosts," which gave the results of of a six years' investigation by the members of the Psychical Research ences of humanity in general with visitors from the spirit world. These singular census takers made the somewhat startling announcement that upward of 10,000,000 people have seen, heard or been touched by the ghosts; the proportion of those who have seen them being the largest, those who have been touched by them the smallest. The veil between this world and the next is notoriously a thin one, and perhaps it is not impossible that when we are overwrought nervously or mentally we what lies beyond would seem as though may fancy or actually have glimpses sleep lifted this veil sometimes and that then the spirit actually did leave the body temporarily and witness things that were happening at a great distance. Almost every family has one or more well authenticated legends of this sort. One of the most interesting that ever came within the writer's actual knowledge was connected with an affair that made a great stir, a good many years ago-the hanging of young Spenser, by Capt. Mackenzie, of the U.S. Navy. As she has heard the story, the vessel commanded by Capt. Mackenzie was on a long crusse when, far from land, the crew began to mu tiny. Upon investigation, ample proof was found that young Spenser, who belonged to a rich and influential New York family, was instigat? ing the movement. As the vessel was far from any port and the officers completely in the power of the mutineers, stringent measures were deemed necessary and the Captain ordered that the ringleaders should be hung. The whole scene of the execution was witnessed by a sister-inlaw of Captain Mackenzie's while she was asleep and she described in in detail to her sister upon awakening. When his vessel returned, some two months later, her description was found to be correct in every particular. It is hard to believe in the boisterous, vulgar, rapping, tabletipping ghost, but sometimes at a great crisis, it may be that the spir-

Professor Munyon does not claim that he has one remedy that will cure all complaints, but that he has prepared a specific cure for nearly every disease. He does not claim that his rheumatic cure will cure consumption, dyspepsia or any other complaint, but he does guarantee that it will cure rheumatism. His dyspepsia cure is prepared expressly to cure dyspepsia; his cough cure to cure coughs; his catarrh remedies to cure catarrh; his kidney cure to cure kidney troubles. The same may be said of all his different remedies.

He has prepared them in a manner which enables the rich and the poor to obtain them for the small sum of 25 cents from any drug store. They are absolutely harmless, pleasant to take and may be carried in the vest pocket.

"No need to say anything further at present. It is for you to prove yourself worthy of our confidence and of the ezar's clemency. '

"Tassure you we had no political aim in view."

"I cannot listen to that. Have you made out the list you promised?" "It is here, excellency." The chief of the secret police took the paper handed to him and silently compared it with one on his desk.

"Dostoieffsky," he read and looked up inquiringly, "is he one of you?"

"I cannot hear you, I have told you already. Be silent and answer my questious.

Then he again scrutinized the list and muttered to himself, "Bardin, Loubanoff, Sobotin-I was not aware of these last. You have done well, Radovitch, and you will find that the czar's government is not unmindful of those who serve it well. Your recent action will atone for your past errors and merit reward besides." "Might I venture to suggest one thing to your excellency?

"Speak out, man. What frightens you now? I have told you that you have nothing to fear, and I can make my word observed."

"My life will not be worth a day's purchase if it is known that it is I who have furnished this information."

"You should have thought of that before joining their society. I see you have

"Of course you will be apprehended with them. "And tried"

"Yes, if you wish it, and condemned, too, for that matter. Anything further?" "And pardoned along with the less guilty of the others, so as to avoid all su-picion?"

"I quite understand you. Rest assured you will have no reason for fear in that respect. "

"I thank your excellency. Any further orders"

"None; you may go." The chief of police smiled to himself as the spy took las departure.

"And so you want to be treated like your fellow conspirators, that you may not be found out by such as escape us. So be it. You will have all you have bargained for, my man."

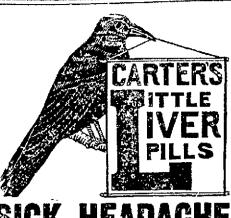

That very evening the police raid took place. Taken as they were by surprise and unconscious of any treachery on the part of one of their number, the little coterie of students, artists and young doctors found themselves bagged, without a single exception. They indignantly demed the charge of conspiring against the government. Their discussions were social, not political, they asseverated. But General Garashinin's myrmidons merely shrugged their shoulders deprecatingly, perhaps incredulous-

ly. They had heard that sort of thing before, and it had meant Siberia for many, if not a more summary fate. Among the 22 was Radovitch, who was also among the loudest in protesting innocence.

In a month the trial took place. Radovitch was not called to give evidence, but took his place among the accused, and, like his companions, had to plead guilty or not guilty to the charge of conspiring to subvert the government. For weeks the trial dragged its slow length along for, though few witnesses were or could be called beyond the police who effected the arrests, there were hundreds of documents, many of them immature coays, and most of purely academic it terest, to be read, which, in a way that only one of the prisoners understood, had come into the hands of the prosecution as well as brief minutes of their proceedings obtained in the

At length the whole 22 were adjudged guilty. Twelve ware sentenced to Siberra, but not to the mines, as the clemency of the cza provided. It was with a thrill akin to herror that Radovitch heard himself sentenced to death, along with the other pine, though conscious that it only form d part of the arrangement that he himself had suggested to General Guashinin

"Sentence to Siberia would have erved the purpose equally well," ho muttered to hirself, and turning to look at his companions he found himself wondering if his own face was as deathly pide as each of theirs. Some of the prisoners slept soundly, as though entirely unconcerned in thogrim tragedy to be enacted on the morrow. Not so Radovitch. From side to side of his narrow cell. Like some caged wild animal, he paced, listening the while intently for the footstep of the messenger that was to recall him to freedom and to the joys of life. The long night passed, all too quickly for him, for whom the mes-enger so unaccountably delayed. He had seen General Garashinin in court from day to day, and once a glance of intelligence, he persuaded himself, had passed be-tween them. Vainly the two warders, whose duty it was to watch him, sought to induce him to take rest.

"He may come at any moment," he kept saying to himself, "and I had better keep awake in case of any misunderstanding."

His throat was parched, and his tongue clove to the roof of his mouth, but he refused every offer of water or wine, overcome as he was with the terrible anxiety of impending doom, an anxiety rendered all the greater by the conviction that such doom was not intended for him.

At last a faint grayness began to manifest itself through the close bars of his cell. It was the light, the herald of a new day, the last for the condemned men. And now Radovitch began to explain, in husky tones, that his conviction was all a blunder. The two men looked intelligently at each other and pityingly upon the wretched prisoner, but said not a word.

In a few minutes all the ten were assembled in the courtyard of the prison, nine of them calm and collected, for the bitterness of death was already past, one a prey to mortal fear and sickening terror and evidencing it all too plainly in his trembling limbs and livid countenance. In the hurried goodbys they exchanged with each other Radovitch came in for more than his share of at-

"Come, Dimeri," said one, "we all owe nature a death. As well pay it now as later."

"Cheer up, comrade," whispered another. ''It makes these hirelings rejoice to see you afraid."

"It's all a mistake," mumbled the wretched man. "Where is General Garashinin?"

"He is never present at executions," replied the soldier he addressed. "He issued his final orders last night.

And then a melancholy procession began to move toward the glacis of the fortress prison. A priest led the way, holding aloft a large cross before the eves of the doomed men, who followed in single file, their ordinary dress covered with a long robe of white lineu, at once a covering for the living and a shroud for the dead. The morning sun had not yet risen as the procession wended its way slowly to the place of excention, their life's span narrowed to a few minutes and narrowing with fearful rapidity at every step they took.

At last they reached the place appointed. Five stakes had been driven into the ground near the summit of the long, even slope of the rampart. To these they were bound in couples, facing the east, now kindling with the warm flush of the rising sun, whose coming was to be the signal for their death. Ranged in front of them, at a distance of 15 yards, was a company of soldiers with loaded rifles, whose captain, standing a little way apart, held in his hand a white handkerchief, at whose fall 60 tongues of fire would leap forth and 60 bullets seek the hearts of the unhappy men.

There was still time for the last scene but one in the tragedy before the sun should rise. The cross was held before the lips of each man for a final kiss in turn. Then a dagger was broken over their heads by a coldier detrated from the thousands drawn up to witness the vengeance of the czar. At that moment the sun seemed to bound into space, and every heart almost stopped.

But the officer has not let the signal handkerchief fall. Instead the retreat is sounded on a score of bugles, and the troops march off the ground. The kneeling men were informed that the emperor had been graciously pleased to grant them their lives. They were unbound, and, as if in a dream, tried to realize all that had happened and to congratulate one another ere the last couple had been reached. One of these had fallen forward on his face as far as his bonds permitted. It was Radovitch.

"He has fainted," said a soldier. "Bring me some water, sharp."
"No need to trouble," said the doctor, who had rapidly examined him.

"He is dead. The fright has killed It was too true. The chief of the secret police had carried out his promise only too literally. The spy had no longer any reason to fear his betrayed comrades' revenge.-London Tit-Bits.

As he seemed to be unhappy, I felt it my daty to speak to him and see what I could do

A Blaze in Morey's Barn That Made the Board of Registry Bustle.

When the Board of Registry in the second district of the First Ward met, this morning, in its sumptuous quarters in Morey's barn, on Wickham avenue, it was decided that a fire was necessary for comfort. The to send a message to the power house stove pipe was old, full of holes and a little shaky but Chief Thorpe, a hour before another car took the member of the Board, thought it place of the disabled one. would do and so a fire was kindled. In a few minutes it was discovered that the barn was on fire, some rub-

the pipe. Major Sproat, one of the Republican inspectors, who was improving | village. his mind by reading Democratic doctrine in the New York Sun, Chief Thorpe and the other members of the Board bestirred themselves and soon had the fire out.

As between the immirent risk of being burned to death and the lesser risk of freezing to death, the Board chose the latter and is getting along without fire, to-day. They intend, however, to strike for a new stove pipe before next week.

THREATENED WITH BLINDNESS.

The Great Affliction That Has Come on an Electric Road Conductor.

Mr. Harry L. Hunt, of 37 Sprague avenue, who ran for several weeks as line, is confined to his home by a serious affection of the eyes. Dr. Valk, of New York, who is attending him, says the sight of one eye is entirely gone and that there is great danger that that of the other will also be lost.

The trouble began about two weeks ago, when he complained of his eyes smarting so badly that he was scarcely able to attend to his dutles on his car, and he quit work about ten days ago. It is supposed that his eyes were not strong enough to stand exposure to the bright sunlight and to the rush of air caused by the swift motion of the car, and that inflammation which set in made such progress before its serious nature was suspected that medical skill could not prevail against it.

Tlacks of Wild Pigeons.

Several small flocks of wild pigeons have been seen in this vicinity, this fall, the first in a number of years. The birds are, however, very wild and so far as we have heard hunters have not succeeded in killing any of them. Last week a flock of several thousand passed over Northampton county, Pa. It was such an unusual sight that it attracted much attention and started scores of hunters affeld, but they succeeded in bagging only a few of the birds.

A Whistle from a Pig's Tail,

Some one has compared the skill required to do a very difficult task to that of making "a whistle from a pig's tail." It has been left to John Roach, of Stormville, Dutchess county, to make a whistle from a pig's tail, and this musical curiosity is in the window of Lyon's jewelry store. -Newburgh Journal

When my little girl was one month old, she had a seab form on her face. It kept spreading until she was completely covered from head to foot. Then she had boils. She had fort, or her head at one time, and more on her body. When six months old she did not weigh seven pounds, a pound and a half less than at birth. Then her skin started to dry up and got so bad she could not shut her eyes to sleep, but lay with them half open. About this time, I started using the Cuticura Remediff, and in one month she was completely cured. The doctor and drug bills were over one hundret dollars, the Cuticura bill was not more than fire dollars. My child is now strong, healthy, and large as any child of her age (see photo), and it is all owing to Cuticura. Yours with a Mother's Blessing, Mrs Geo H.
